DETAILED ACTION

Two Grouping Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S. 121:

I. Claims 1-12, drawn to apparatus of covering a protrusion on a roof, classified in class 52, subclass 60.

II. Claims 13-19, drawn to method of making a covering protrusion on a roof, classified in class 156, subclass 165.

2. Inventions I and II are related as process if either of the following can be shown:

(1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or

(2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process.

For instant case, the apparatus claims could be made by a method different than that of group II such as using a sheet of waterproof (e.g. elastic material) dimensioning a work piece to be applied thus cover around protruding surface of the roof and seal with cured adhesion.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purpose as indicated is proper.

4. During a telephonic conversation on 3/21/02 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, Applicant had elected group I (claims 1-12) apparatus of covering a roof with traverse.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 2, 5-7, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lyons (US 4,603,517).

Lyons discloses a corner gap support comprising a base portion 44 having openings in between, a top portion 42 connecting to the base portion 44, a base flap portion 46 interposed between first and second of base portion, and extends from a bottom edge of top portion 42 (see figs. 3-4).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3, 4, 9, 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lyons (US 4,603,517) in view of Gentry (US 4,625,469).

Lyons discloses a corner gap support comprising a base portion 44 having openings in between, a tip portion 42 connecting to the base portion 44, a base flap portion 46 interposed between first and second of base portion and extends from a bottom edge of top portion 42.

Art Unit: 3635

Lyons does not disclose expressly the base and top portions are welded, having a cone shaped. Gentry teaches replacement flat roof insulation cover having a flexible membrane or boot including a base portion 60 and top portion 58 and having a cone-shaped (see figs. 9a, 9b). At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to modify and combine Lyons' invention with Gentry's teaching for a cone-shaped boot. The motivation for doing so would have been to provide more convenience for installers when they need for covering pipes or other applications with have the similar shape requirement.

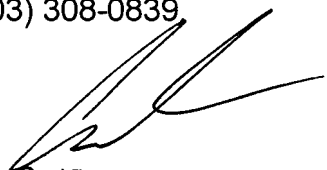

Lyons and Gentry disclose the structural elements for covering protrusion a roof except for the base and top portions are welded together, examiner considers it is a method of forming a device and not germane to the issue of patentability of the device itself.

Therefore, this limitation has been given patentable weight.
